

The investigations at the Institute for Technical Chemistry focused on the removal of CO₂ from product gases by Hydrotalcites at maximum conditions, - temperatures up to 500 °C and system pressures up to 80 bar. The research provides the base of innovative ceramic membranes for the selective CO₂ removal from gases.